The Soraya's 7th Annual Summer Arts Institute

The Arts and Literacy: A Partnership to Increase Literacy Development for All Learners

Strengthening literacy skills can help to achieve positive learning outcomes across the curriculum. There is strong evidence that the arts can help to improve the literacy development for students at every age and learning ability. The arts are uniquely positioned to enhance literacy as they go beyond linguistic strategies and stimulate a student's kinesthetic, visual, and auditory learning.

The Soraya's 7th Annual Summer Arts Institute will continue our deep dive into arts integration strategies and focus on the literacy development, cognitive skills, and creativity of your students. Our sessions are always dynamic, experiential, and on-your-feet, so as our previous participants frequently say, "Be prepared to move!"

- WORK WITH YOUR COLLEAGUES AND MEET NEW ONES
- INDULGE YOUR CREATIVE SIDE
- TRANSFORM YOUR CLASSROOM INTO A LEARNING LABORATORY OF VITALITY AND FUN

WE LISTENED!

Last year, The Soraya hosted an Arts Institute Summit to assess the previous five years of our professional development and plant seeds for future work. As a result, this year we will:

- Include more time for lesson planning
- Schedule Soraya staff in-class visits to assist with strategy implementation
- Explore online platforms for participants to share experiences and ideas during the school year
